

ASBURY CIRCUIT RIDER

Ordinary

When I was a teenager I wanted to play in the NBA some day. I played basketball so much that I really don't remember a whole lot of other things that I did back then. When I talk about this time in my life I usually fail to mention that before basketball it was football that captured my fantasy. But when I didn't make the 7th grade football team but did make the basketball team, my focus changed. My dreams were about standing out. I seemed to have a fear of what life would be like if I was only ordinary.

Ordinary. Doesn't stand out. No distinctive features. For me these words described someone who couldn't hit 90% from the free-throw line. They described someone who didn't have an awesome jump shot. Someone who couldn't play above the rim. Who wants that?

Overtime I have grown rather fond of ordinary. There is something comfortable about a familiar pair of jeans, a black t-shirt and the same shoes I've worn for months. I like the fit. I don't have to worry about matching colors or stripes with plaid. It's comfortable. It's ordinary.

After all, people who stand out are the first ones to receive criticism when someone either disagrees with them or is jealous that they aren't getting the attention.

Insight

This week we transition from our current series, Insight, to our new series, Love does. Insight has been a time of reflection. Our subtitle, Believing is seeing, points to the power of insight. When we believe that God is with us, our spiritual eyes are opened even if our physical eyes fail us.

God's love for us manifests in both acts of love for us and through us. And we receive insight that these are blessings from God.

Life in our neighborhood comes with a focus on survival. Going without is a way of life.

To such an extent that spiritual insight can seem like a luxury for the well-off. An extra that we pursue after we take care of our water bill. But know this. Spiritual insight is a gift. There is no cost. Believe in the One who created you and your eyes will be opened to new possibilities that you otherwise will miss. Spiritual insight may not pay your water bill but it will give you more joy than you can ever imagine. And God is not ignorant of water bills.

There is a story found in the Gospel of John that contains one of the most straight-forward and powerful testimonies to the healing power of Christ found in Scripture. A man, blind since birth,

Who needs that? Us ordinary folks are not the targets when it comes to rock throwing. We're just as happy to see someone else take the heat.

There's a story found in the Gospel of Luke about a time when Jesus was talking to some folks on the beach and he noticed some guys who had just come in from fishing. I'm thinking that they were ordinary because when Jesus stepped into one of the boats that belonged to a man named Simon and asked him to push off from shore so Jesus could keep speaking when questioned by the authorities regarding the source of Jesus' healing power, tells this: "One thing I do know: I was blind, and now I see." The man did not make any claims that he could not back up with evidence. Simple. Direct. To the point.

This story about a miracle healing from physical blindness offers us a metaphor. And this metaphor is at the core of one of the most popular Christian songs of all, Amazing Grace. This song is sang by believers throughout the world as a testimony to the insight that each of us receive as a gift from God. The insight that God lived among people and that we are saved by our belief that Jesus Christ is God incarnate.

I have noticed that spiritual blindness is prevalent – even among Christians. For each of us to the crowd, Simon did it. Simon didn't do any speaking. He just did what he was asked. He let Jesus do the standing out.

is at best near-sighted, and worse case, nearly blind and in denial about our spiritual insight. When we are spiritually blind our mind fabricates an image of Christ that best suits that which we want to believe and we go on with our lives doing that which suits us at the time.

After he said this, Jesus spat on the ground and made some mud with the spittle; he rubbed the mud on the man's eyes and told him, "Go and wash your face in the Pool of Siloam." So the man went, washed his face, and came back seeing.

John 9:6-7

Spiritual insight changes us. But once we reach a point where we believe we can see 20/20 spiritually, something happens to our brain and to our willingness to hear and see Christ at work.

Spiritual maturity is the opposite of spiritual blindness. We reach a point where we recognize that we cannot see 20/20 at all and that we are dependent on Christ and each other to make our way through the world without bumping into the furniture. Our vision continues to come and go. Some days we see clearly although still quite near-sighted. Other days, we can sense the darkness and recognize that what we see is sufficiently blurry that today is a good day for more prayer. More time with our Lord.

When Jesus is finished speaking to the crowd on the beach he tells Simon to take the boat out into deeper water and for Simon and his fishing buddies, James and John, to put out their nets. Now the boys had fished all night without anything to show for it but despite a little grumbling they did what Jesus told them to do. And it worked.

Their nets were so full of fish they called for backup. It took their boat and crew along with the other boat that they had fished with to haul in the load of fish. So many fish that their nets strained and nearly ripped from the weight.

Simon was so overwhelmed that he fell to his knees in front of Jesus. "Go away from me. I am a sinful man" Simon blurts out. Simon is one of those guys who says what others are thinking. This fishing trip was the sort of miracle that had Holy Man written all over it and Simon was not in the same league with anyone that had that much pull with God. After all, God only does this sort of miracle for people who stand out from the crowd. Simon was ordinary and not necessarily the better version of ordinary.

worship. Without insight worship is an expression of spiritual malnutrition. Through insight we receive that which we cannot live without through the power of God's Spirit feeding our souls. Nevertheless, even without insight, worship will satisfy our hunger and our spiritual eyes will be opened as we allow God's image to glow within us and the Holy Spirit to take up residence within our being.

If you have been following our current series, Insight, you will not want to miss this message that will take us from our past few weeks of teachings on believing is seeing to what we can expect from insight. That Love does. Our new series begins next Sunday. I pray that you will join us.

Prayer is at the heart of our beliefs

Living a Breakthrough Life

Bob Goff established a tradition with his children that merits examination. On their 10th birthday the child chooses an adventure go to on. And they just go. No advanced planning. No preparation. As the Nike slogan mandates. Just do it! *

You can draw your own conclusions about the merits of his parenting techniques from Bob's story when you read his book. But for me, I believe that one of the most valuable lessons for Bob's children was to have a taste of what it is like to follow Jesus. It is the adventure of a lifetime. And while I'm convinced that God knows the plan, we who follow Jesus seldom know much more than what is happening right now and perhaps a next step. Our adventure unfolds without us knowing anymore than that God has promised a life lived with Him that lasts forever.

Let's face it. People too often say

Book Club News

Our next book for discussion at our weekly Book Club is Love Does by Bob Goff. This book is an easy read and a great joy that is hard to put down. Bob's view of life comes through the pages and his literary skills allow his readers to feel a part of the action. And a part of the life lessons.

See Pastor Tommy, contact the office, or just show up for Book Club to receive a copy. A donation of $10 is encouraged for each book and we appreciate any help with purchasing books for those unable to pay for one. Please refrain from taking a copy if you don't intend to read and discuss the book with us. Copies are readily available through Amazon and other sellers.

Bob writes that he keeps his office on Tom Sawyer Island at Disney World. Sporting a season pass he spends time in a place where many people who visit Disney World don't bother. One travel guide listed Tom Sawyer Island as an oasis within the madness of long lines, crowds and the hot sun. But our writer uses this getaway as a metaphor for missing out.

Tom Sawyer Island is no amusement ride. You bring your imagination to the attraction. And apparently it is one of those attractions that most visitors to Disney World leave on their "if I get around to it" list and they are fresh out of "round tuits" and pass — and miss out on an adventure. "Tom Sawyer Island is like most people's lives, I think: they never get around to crossing over to it" writes Bob Goff.

In his assessment of "people" the writer brings the words and stories of Jesus into his analysis as well as his own journey that began with a couple of believers who seemed to live out their faith to a relatively unimpressive high school student. While Jesus told parables and stories to illustrate truth Jesus also spoke plainly about a lot of very important topics. For one, Jesus made it clear to the people around Him that it isn't enough to just look like you love God. Instead, Jesus pointed out that the way to tell how much we love God is by how well we love people.

Let's face it. People can be hard to love at times. But if we truly believe that God created us and wants what is best for us, this makes God rather easy to love. And I suspect a lot of people — most people stop there. They love God but not so much God's people. And let's face it, church people can be hard to love. But this isn't the point.

Perhaps this is one of the challenges for those who don't believe that God lived among people as Jesus Christ. They may even like Jesus but they don't care much for what Jesus told them they needed to do. In one of the stories Jesus tells a young man with a lot of belongings that he needed to get rid of his stuff. It must have been getting in the way of the young man loving others. He went away sad we read. Most of us go away sad at the thought of giving something up.

Bob takes the Gospel seriously by living whimsically. A contradiction? Not really. We can never quite know what God is up to so even our best laid plans may get interrupted by a God request. Are we willing to drop everything, or sell everything, or just change our mind about what we plan to do tomorrow? This is how love does.

Since God is insistent that we love one another, this state of feelings toward another person we call "love" must move from a noun to a verb. We do because we love. We go because we love. We respond because we love. This all looks quite whimsical to the world outside the Kingdom of God. But this is how love does.

and do another. People say one thing and mean another. We have all put our faith in another person only to be disappointed. It's easy to grow callous and indifferent. It is admirable that Bob kept his promise to his children. It is even more important that his children learn that he may sometimes fail them but God never will. Bob loves his children. God loves Bob's children, and Bob, even more.

But love without an accompanying action is first of all a noun. It gives a label to something without sufficient detail to know much about the thing it names. It leaves a rather empty feeling as though something important is missing. Love requires action to be full. Love as a verb is life-giving and life-saving when animated with God's Holy Spirit. Love does rather than sit back or hold back. While love honor's the Sabbath love does not hide behind rest to avoid hard work. Love is a light shining in the darkness that finds a way forward even where brokenness casts shadows. Love does.

We can read in the Gospel how Jesus chose His first followers and the invitation that they received. "Come and see" is the prevailing message. Rather than offer His followers a detailed itinerary of their adventure Jesus knew that words without action are just words. Followers need to do and not just hear. If this sounds a bit whimsical then you get the point. Come and see.

My children, our love should not be just words and talk; it must be true love, which shows itself in action.

1 John 3:18

God established early on that Words spoken by our Creator never return empty. We read that God spoke through the Prophet Isaiah the following: So also will be the word that I speak — it will not fail to do what I plan for it; it will do everything I send it to do (Isaiah 55:11 GNT). And Jesus Christ is God's Word that was sent that we might know the nature of God more completely. But this requires trusting that our plans are only as good as our willingness to trust God with the outcomes.

The leadership of Asbury believes that 2019 will be a breakthrough year for Asbury. We believe that God has taken us on a wild adventure that has seen God's love in action. While there has been heartbreak and disappointment, aren't these a part of what makes an adventure an adventure?

The outcomes are still not certain. God alone carries the weight of foresight. But this we have learned. Living a breakthrough life requires the courage to take the next step, trusting that Jesus is who He says He is and will do everything He said he will do. Jesus Christ is, because God loves the world and wants to save us. God is love. And love does.

Join us each Sunday for our new series, Love does, and learn about living a breakthrough life. Invite your friends, family and everyone that you meet. They will thank you.

* Goff, Bob. Love Does: Discover a Secretly Incredible Life in an Ordinary World. Nashville: Thomas Nelson, 2012.

Author Donald Miller, writes this about his friend and colleague, "Bob Goff loves people with a force that is natural, and by natural I mean like nature, like a waterfall or wind or waves on the ocean. He loves effortlessly, as though love packs annually in snow on a mountain, melting and rushing through him in an infinite loop. There's no explanation for a man who can love this well save God. I think Bob Goff knows God, and I think God's love flows through him."

The review on Amazon writes that "When Love Does life gets interesting. Each day turns into a hilarious, whimsical, meaningful chance that makes faith simple and real. Each chapter is a story that forms a book, a life. And this is one life you don't want to miss. Light and fun, unique and profound, the lessons drawn from Bob's life and attitude just might inspire you to be secretly incredible, too."

Jason Russell, Co-founder of Invisible Children writes "If all people loved the way Bob Goff loves all people, the world would change overnight. In this book, he reminds us of the truest virtue the kingdom calls us to practice: Love Does. It's active. The Jesus we serve is surprising and subversive. Bob knows this because he himself is both paradoxically wise as a wizard and as joy-filled as a toddler."

We encourage you to come to our Wednesday gatherings. Our small group hopes to widen our circle and so we hope that you will join in on our discussion. We meet each Wednesday at Noon. Come join us for a light lunch, fellowship and discussion. Our food selections have been fantastic and we always have plenty to share. And we are always on the lookout for our next book, video lesson or topic. Your participation and suggestions are greatly appreciated.

Life Group Questions & Notes

He and the others with him were all amazed at the large number of fish they had caught. The same was true of Simon's partners, James and John, the sons of Zebedee. Jesus said to Simon, "Don't be afraid; from now on you will be catching people." They pulled the boats up on the beach, left everything, and followed Jesus.

NOTES FROM WORSHIP

QUESTIONS FOR SMALL GROUPS

1. Read the story about Simon (Peter), James and John becoming disciples of Jesus in Luke 5:1-11. Surely one good fishing trip was not enough to convince these men to leave everything and follow Jesus. Was it? What hooked you on following Jesus?
2. Has Jesus ever lead you out into deep waters where you were reluctant to go? What happened? Is Jesus calling you out into the deep waters right now?
3. How can the members of your group help you this week and on-going to help you remove obstacles that stand in the way of your witness?

Neighborhood Connection

We envision a community in love with God, each other, and our neighbors evidenced by the transformation of ourselves and our neighborhood. We are a center for worship & spiritual growth, a center for connections and a center for health & wellness.

Our goal is a revitalized community where every resident can use their talents and passions for the common good, where children grow into citizens who contribute to building and maintaining a vibrant neighborhood, and all residents are able to enjoy safety, good health, a culture that fosters life long learning and satisfying lives.

We believe that such an ambitious goal can never be attained without God's grace and abundance and Christ calls each of us to be disciples willing to share our witness through words and acts.

This story ends in a way that ought to get our attention. Jesus asks this ordinary fishing crew to follow Him. They pulled their boats back up on the shore, left their nets and followed Jesus. Perhaps I was wrong about these men. Do ordinary people just drop their stuff and leave like that?

The word ordinary is misleading when it comes to describing people. None of us are really ordinary. Each one of us has a blemish here and there. A spot here and there. Most of us, and I really believe all of us, have said and done things that we are not very proud of and perhaps even in the same day said or did something amazing. Something extraordinary.

They pulled the boats up on the beach, left everything, and followed Jesus.

Luke 5:11 GNT

Scripture doesn't tell us what they did with all of the fish. Did one of them stick five of them in their pocket for later? Did they give the fish to the crowds that Jesus had been talking to?

Perhaps the other fisher guys took all of the fish to market and promised to save their share for them.

These details don't seem to matter so much as that Jesus sees these ordinary guys who may have been lousy at fishing, based on the evidence at the time, led them out into deeper water where Jesus filled their nets with more abundance than they could handle by themselves. These ordinary, questionable fishers, became part of Jesus' first team that Jesus was putting together to carry on the mission of building His church after He got them started and partially trained.

These ordinary guys made it to the Jesus movement version of the NBA without so much as a tryout. No signing bonus. No contract. Just a covenant to be explained later after the adventure of a lifetime. These ordinary men would someday be thought of as extraordinary. Not because of who they were or what they did, but because of what Jesus did with them and through them.

Being ordinary doesn't mean that we are not seen by Jesus. Even while Jesus is dealing with the crowd He notices us, and He notices when we're having a bad day. And He is willing to turn our frown upside down but we need to be willing to wait for Him and listen as he teaches the crowd. And then we need to be willing to go with Him out into the deep water.

You will no longer be ordinary, but then you never really were ordinary.

But plan on needing help and calling your buddies standing on the shore to come and help haul in the load. Be prepared to fall on your knees as you realize who is in the boat with You that all of Creation listens to. And be ready to drop everything you're holding onto and follow Him.

You will no longer be ordinary, but then you never really were ordinary. God sees you standing there and He knows what kind of day you're having. Come join us on Sundays for our new worship series, Love does, that begins with this week's message that we simply call Ordinary.
