Miracles (One-to-One)

In this week's chapters from Letters to Santa, Lisa picks up the Christmas Globe at Kringle's Kitchen and shakes it as she says, "Please work." The snow globe was famous in Evergreen for people shaking it and making a wish as the snow settled on the couple in front of the tiny church inside the globe that looked a lot like the church in Evergreen. Lisa shares her wish with the others. "A new idea." Lisa hoped for a miracle that would result in finding a new owner for Daisy's Country Store.

Preparations (Ready or not)

How is it going with your preparations for Christmas? Do you decorate your house inside and out? Do you have a tree up and decorated? Have you finished your Christmas shopping? Have you started?

Preparations come with anticipation. The point of preparations is that which we're expecting to happen.

In framing a home, we use chalk lines a lot. They're part of the preparation for a step to follow. The lines soon fade and disappear, but as we lay them down, we do so in expectation of the wall, siding, shingles, or whatever the chalk-line is there to guide. While a perfect chalk-line is good and necessary, it is not the final result.

Time was running out and so were her hopes of saving the store. Meanwhile, Lisa's best friend and business partner, Oliver, is on his way to Evergreen, by train, to help. Is Oliver the miracle Lisa wished for?

Every year the town holds an annual Christmas event that featured the handiwork of residents. That's it! Lisa and Oliver stage the store using these items. One of their customers, Polly, agreed to visit Evergreen on Christmas Eve to determine if the store will fit her plans to expand.

The miracle Lisa wished for from the Christmas Globe was coming together.

Do you believe in miracles? A study conducted by Pew Research a decade ago found that over eighty percent of us believe in miracles. A more recent study, however, suggested that large numbers of former believers left church because they no longer believe in God. Does their unbelief disqualify them from experiencing miracles?

If you count yourself among those of us who believe miracles happen, what constitutes a miracle for you? The criteria that we use to determine whether something that happens is a miracle varies. But most of us agree real miracles involve God, whether whatever happened could have been a coincidence or would have happened, regardless.

I claim numerous one-to-one encounters with God. I wonder if these happened because I'm rather high-maintenance? As a child I imagined God near me most of the time. This feeling went away as I reach my teen years, although, looking back, it had more to do with me than God.

My most memorable encounter took place in the hospital. I suspect a lot of miracles happen in hospitals and even more requests for miracles happen. The image of an angel mediated my encounter sitting next to my bed in the middle of the night.

I believe all miracles involve God's spirit as a mediator and a medium for miracles. And I'm guessing that our minds bend and shape our encounters into digestible pieces. Otherwise, encountering God would simply be too overwhelming for us to cope.

God has anointed me to bring good news to the suffering and afflicted... to tell those who mourn that the time of God's favor to them has come ...

Isaiah 61: 1-4

The Prophet Isaiah believed he encountered God one-to-one. Afterwards, Isaiah exclaims, "God anointed me to bring good news to the suffering and afflicted, and sent me to comfort the brokenhearted, to announce liberty to captives, and to open the eyes of the blind."

There is nothing particularly miraculous about the commission God gives to Isaiah. Except that it is God and Isaiah. A one-to-one connection between humanity and our Creator. Is this miraculous or does it just feel that way when we realize that we have encountered God one-to-one?

Upcoming Worship Series "Letters"

One of my favorite activities to do the week of Thanksgiving is to watch movies with a Christmas theme. Hallmark produces most of the movies I choose. There are more choices than time to watch them all, but the commonality between them reminds me of the similarities of messages found among greeting cards. A man or woman is in a place where they would not ordinarily be. Some obstacle or challenge presents itself. They meet someone, and somehow pieces fall into place and they live happily ever after.

Book Club News

Our companion book for our new worship series is Nancy Naigle's book,

Christmas in Evergreen: Letter to Santa. Also a Hallmark movie, her book tells the story of how Lisa Palmer finally receives a gift asked for at age seven in a letter to Santa.

The author's website describes her book this way:

When Lisa takes a last-minute Christmas trip to her hometown of Evergreen, she finds that the historic general store has been closed. Using her skills as a professional retail designer, Lisa decides to keep local tradition alive and help the good people of Evergreen bring the store back to life.

Lisa charms a local contractor named Kevin into working with her, and the pair find themselves facing one surprise after another as they restore the store to its former glory. When the staff at the Kringle Kitchen temporarily accept the store's beloved 'Mailbox to Santa' for safekeeping, the townspeople find and rally around a mysterious 25-year-old letter that never made it to the North Pole.

I have often thought of creating a worship series based on one or more Hallmark movies. After all, many of their themes remind me of the ups and downs of many stories found in scripture.

Christmas is a time of anticipation. Most of us have preferences for how the season should play out based on imperfect memories of past holidays. And although we can picture the expected outcome, life happens in ways we had not anticipated.

Welcome to our series Letters. If you prefer books to movies, I encourage you to read along with me as our imagination wanders from the pages of Nancy Naigle’s book to ancient times, when persons and communities also faced life-altering decisions.

Weeping we sat beside the rivers of Babylon thinking of Jerusalem.

Psalm 137:1

Of course, the movie, Christmas in Evergreen: Letters to Santa, is available from the Hallmark Channel if this is your media of choice.

As I searched through Hallmark’s library, reading dozens of summaries, Babylon kept popping up in my subconscious. In scripture, Babylon is a city, a region, and an empire. Most of all, Babylon is a place of exile.

Abram and Sarai, better known as Abraham and Sarah, were originally from Babylonia. It was in Babylon that the community attempted to build a tower tall enough to reach heaven. The people of Judea were exiled in Babylon.

As with most movies, biblical stories are about specific people. While, at the same time, the stories reveal things about ourselves. We’re not only invited to take on roles as we experience the story, we are the story.

As the daughter of military parents, Lisa Palmer lived an unsettled life. And as an adult, she wanted to return to Evergreen, the town where she was born, to spend Christmas. Lisa’s family left Evergreen when she was seven. Before her family left, Lisa put a letter to Santa in the box at Daisy’s General Store asking that she could spend every Christmas in Evergreen. Daisy, the store owner, suggests she make a slight, but subtle change to her letter that every year be “like” Christmas in Evergreen.

“Feed Flint”

“Feed Flint”

A meal goes a long way for a senior living alone, a family struggling to make ends meet, or a child fearful of empty shelves at home. But for the residents of Flint who carry the effects of lead-tainted water, nutrition is critical. Feed Flint provides locally grown, chemical-free, fresh produce to residents living in and around Flint. And we're hoping that you can help us provide 10,000 meals this summer.

Feed Flint includes takeout meals, produce boxes with recipes, and home deliveries as part of our work to guide and support families in moving to sustainable abundance. The reality is that Michigan's food insecurity levels got worse during the COVID-19 pandemic, and this summer's recovery is leaving behind those at the most risk of having to miss meals.

Flint families continue to struggle with the ongoing effects of the water crisis.

We're bringing together the resources of the Asbury Community Development Corporation. This includes Asbury Farms, the South Flint Soup Kitchen, the Asbury Community Help Center, multiple food pantries, and our Sizzling Culture Mobile Food Trailer. Our plan is to care for our neighbors when they need it most. We accept all people as they are, and our doors are always open to anyone.

Asbury Farms provides locally grown produce used to create fabulous and nutritious meals. Our seed-to-table approach is community-based. This not only helps families make it through emergencies and crises. We help move families towards sustainable abundance.

Our Sizzling Culture program provides jobs and new skills to our city's youth. This includes year-round employment. Our staff and most of our volunteers come from the neighborhoods we support. We call this sustainable abundance because families move from need-based on scarcity to enough based on community-generated abundance.

Our work is also about food and justice. Our vision is a revitalized community where every resident can use their talents and passions for the common good, where children grow into active citizens. And all residents can enjoy safety, good health, and a culture that fosters life-long learning and satisfying lives. This summer, help us address food insecurity and strengthen Flint's budding local food system by supporting the Feed Flint campaign. Thank you for taking the time to see what we're doing and considering how you can help.

Isaiah 61:1-4

NOTES FROM WORSHIP

QUESTIONS FOR LIFE GROUPS:

1. Read Isaiah 61:1-4. What images come to mind as you read this text? In what ways do you identify with Isaiah? What's different about your circumstances? In what ways does this prophecy remind you of the Christmas Holidays?
2. Read this week's articles titled Miracles? Have you witnessed miracles? Share your experiences. What causes you to believe they were miracles? Do you notice more miracles during the Christmas Season? Why?
3. How can the members of your group help you this week and on-going to help you to be more receptive to hearing and understanding the Word of God? Pray for each other to have the Holy Spirit bless you with more courage.

As old traditions are made new again, Lisa finds herself falling for Kevin, the traditions, and the town of Evergreen.

We have a limited number of copies of Nancy Naigle's book. It is no longer in print but there are used copies available along with the local library. The movie is available via the Hallmark Channel, Amazon, and other media outlets. The scenes from the movie parallel the chapters in the book.

Here is the schedule of chapters for our Advent Series:

Dec 3	Chapters 1 - 5
Dec 10	Chapters 6 - 10
Dec 17	Chapters 11 - 15
Dec 24	Chapters 16 - 19
Dec 31	Chapters 20 - 23 + Epilogue

Our Book Club does not meet as a group. However, our weekly messages reference that weeks chapters. You can anticipate spoiler alerts unless you keep up with the pace. I've purchased ten books but when they're gone you can still purchase your own copy or visit your local library.

You can contact our office with questions, by phone or simply type your question or enter a prayer request on our website's homepage — FlintAsburyChurch.org.

The people of Judah’s exile in Babylon came because of turning to other gods and losing their connection with the One True God. While in exile, they longed for holidays like they had when God was an everyday presence in their lives.

Christmas is particularly situated as a time of longing for God’s presence. Anticipating what might be possible when God lives among people, beginning as a helpless baby born in a place that new parents would not choose.

May your holiday be like Christmas in Evergreen. May your Christmas be filled with the peace and joy that Christ alone brings to all believers.

NEW CHRISTMAS TRADITION!!

Beginning December 1st, read one chapter
Of the Book of Luke in the Bible each evening.

There are 24 chapters.

On Christmas Eve you will have read an entire account
Of Jesus's Life and wake up
Christmas morning knowing WHO
And WHY we celebrate!

Michele Weston, President
United Women in Faith

Sixty chapters earlier, we read the account of Isaiah's first encounter with God. Scholars question whether it is the same person, so I will use his name generically. Perhaps this is appropriate any way since each of us is invited to have an Isaiah experience. A miraculous encounter with our Creator.

Isaiah's recollection of his encounter is spectacular. His description is poetic. Isaiah presumed he was doomed. Instead, Isaiah was given the gifts of prophetic insight and speech. But his gifts came with a commission to share insights with others that God is never absent nor inactive.

Christmas is a special time for miracles. Perhaps the Christmas spirit itself is the most persuasive miracle of all. After all, for Christians, Christmas is a celebration of God's most personal one-to-one encounter with humanity.

What miracle is greater than the birth of a baby? How much more so when we consider who this baby is?

May you experience miracles in your life every day. Most of all, may you notice the miracles taking place all around you.

Parts of our series was inspired by Nancy Naigle. Christmas in Evergreen: Letters to Santa. Hallmark Publishing. © Crown Media Family Networks, 2019.

In our companion book, Letters to Santa, the town of Evergreen is preparing for Christmas. Meanwhile, Lisa and Kevin are preparing the Country Store to show to a prospective buyer. As the two gather materials for the store, they come across a mysterious key that they give to Thomas' son, David, to search for the lock it opens.

One building that gathers attention from several residents is a local church. They held the annual Christmas festival there year after year. Kevin remembered when you could hear the church bells from anywhere in town. Unfortunately, the bells stopped working years ago and no one could figure out how to get them going again.

Sadly, the prospective buyer decided against purchasing the store. And this week's chapters ends with Lisa feeling responsible for the sadness felt by both Ezra and Kevin. All of her preparations and hopes seemed in vain.

According to ancient prophecy, preparations would come before the Messiah. A voice in the desert would call all people to repent for their past mistakes and move forward in anticipation of the One coming.

Christians believe this voice was John the Baptist, a relative of Jesus, born a short time before Him. John's father was told before his birth that his son was the fulfillment of a prophecy.

John was a strange man by ordinary standards. For example, John dressed differently than others and ate different foods. Most important, John was certain of his role in the salvation of humanity. He was to call others to prepare for the arrival of the Messiah.

Jesus and John first met while still in their mother's wombs when Mary visited John's mother, Elizabeth, while pregnant herself. Mary knew the plans God had for her Son, although short on detail.

I will send my messenger ahead to open the way. Someone is shouting in the desert, "Get the road ready for the Lord; make a straight path for him to travel!"

Mark 1:1-8

Jesus and John would meet again as adults, but we're getting ahead of ourselves. Before this happened, we celebrate the birth of Jesus. And we choose Christmas for this celebration.

But Christmas is still a couple of weeks away. Meanwhile, we prepare for the celebration. Decorations are great and pleasing to the eye. But they are external. And bulbs burnout, live decorations dry out, and we put them all away after Christmas.

However, our preparations on the inside are eternal. How will you prepare your heart for celebrating the birth of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ? He is the main reason we choose to celebrate. He makes joy possible.
