cliff with a front room tacked on.

The Bible does not tell us much about the village of Nazareth. Most of what we know comes from archeologists, who tell us that Nazareth was hardly a village at all. In Jesus's time, Nazareth was a collection of huts, two-room houses that often consisted of a cave in the

The Disciple (Who Dunnit?)

The story of Judas Iscariot is heartbreaking. You likely recall that Judas betrayed Jesus by turning Him over to the authorities. He is the disciple everyone loves to hate. Why? Perhaps we worry that there may be too much Judas in us.

What happened? Like the others, Judas saw or felt something about Jesus that was so compelling that he walked away from home, family, and career to follow Him. The other followers came to trust Judas enough that they put him in charge of the money.

Most of the people in Nazareth were farmers and shepherds, which means that Joseph would have been an anomaly. Without a field to farm, he earned a living as a builder. He wouldn't have found much work in Nazareth.
Most likely, Joseph walked two hours each morning to Sepphoris, the nearest big city, where he got work as a day laborer on construction projects.

Sepphoris would have been a bustling, cosmopolitan sort of place with traders and merchants from foreign lands. When Jesus tagged along with Joseph, he would have experienced an astonishing diversity of people, clothing, and languages. All of this might explain why the people of Nazareth looked down on Joseph and his family.

The people don't expect much when Jesus, who is just beginning to establish a reputation as a wandering rabbi, returns to preach in the local synagogue. Jesus reads about a great jubilee—a moment when God will lift up the poor, set the prisoner free, give sight to the blind, and end oppression. Jesus declares that this moment is at hand, and his neighbors are impressed—they seem delighted that Jesus can even string a few words together.

But then the sermon takes a turn. Instead of quitting while he is ahead, Jesus keeps going. He predicts that the people of Nazareth will reject him, his ministry, and his message. He starts telling stories from Scripture. He tells the story of Elijah, who gave miraculous food to a Canaanite widow. He tells the story of Elisha, who heals a Syrian leper. He makes it clear that in his ministry, God is once again reaching out to outsiders and foreigners, and he correctly predicts that this is going to make people angry.

Why does Jesus take his sermon in this particular direction? We can only assume that Jesus knew which message the people most needed and least wanted to hear. Jesus knew firsthand how the people of Nazareth looked down on outsiders (like his father Joseph). And he had heard them talking about the evils of the big city. "You' d never catch me over there," they said, "You know what those people are like."

Today, this Scripture has been fulfilled in your hearing.

Luke 4:20-23

Jesus knew that people in Nazareth blamed strangers for every crime and every hardship. Jesus knew that the people of Nazareth were proud of their religion (the right religion), they were proud of their nation (God's favorite nation), and they had contempt for people who were not like them. That hatred was the glue that held their religiosity and patriotism together.

And that's what Jesus challenges in his sermon—he challenges their right to hate. He points out that God embraces the people they despise. Jesus challenges their sense of privilege and entitlement. He challenges their belief that God will always choose to be on their side. And he must know what will Upcoming Worship Series "Who Dunnit?

During this year's Lent observance, we, along with several other area UM Churches, are participating in a series titled Who Dunnit? The people who wanted Jesus dead (see article). The series begins after Ash Wednesday on Sunday, March 9.

In Sunday school, when we asked our teachers, "Why did Jesus have to die?" they usually answered, "Jesus died to save us." This is a really confusing, although truthful answer.

Perhaps they gave us that simplistic answer because it seemed safer than saying, "Jesus died because he challenged the powers of this world."

The Jesus of the New Testament is both human and divine. He was adored but also feared, and He was both meek and powerful. We cannot sum up Jesus by a word or simple phrase. His impact on world history and on the spiritual lives of believers today can't be overstated.

In our companion book, you'll learn about the closest followers and most outspoken rivals of Jesus, from the High Priest who hated Jesus to the beloved disciple who laid his head on Jesus's breast at the Last Supper.

"Who Dunnit?

In Who Dunnit?, we focus on people who attempted to shorten Jesus's ministry. After all, they represent, in one way or another, the spiritual powers of this world that Jesus encountered in the wilderness.

Let me explain. After His baptism, Jesus spent 40 days in the wilderness, where Satan attempted to exploit His human weaknesses. During Lent, we are asked to reflect on our temptations and how God may call us to respond.

The people who tried to kill Jesus were consumed by selfish desires. The desire for comfort, desire for power, and desire glory. Many believed Jesus had to die because He refused to play the game, and in doing so, he exposed the hypocrisy of those who claimed to know God and live accordingly.

In this series, we will learn about the people who wanted Jesus dead, and we will discover that God is calling us still to resist the powers that conspired to put Jesus on the cross.

We'll use The Friends and Foes of Jesus for a companion book by Dr. Peter DeHaan. Our author says he often makes religious people squirm, but spiritual seekers cheer. He's not trying to be provocative, he says, but he seeks truth. And the truth makes some people uncomfortable.

Reading from our companion book is divided into mostly equal pages each week. Since our companion book is a whirlwind tour of dozens of names, our series won't connect directly. However, we'll have an opportunity to consider how the messages each week inform our understanding of each person's view of Jesus.

NOTES FROM WORSHIP

QUESTIONS FOR LIFE GROUPS:

- 1. Read Luke 22:3-6. What are some of the emotions that you feel when reading this text?
- 2. Read the article in this week's Circuit Rider titled The disciple. What is your version of why Judas decided to betray Jesus? In what ways do you distance yourself from Judas? In what ways do you connect with Judas, or at least one or more of the reasons Judas did what he chose to do? Do you believe the devil made him do it? Explain.
- 3. How can your group members help you be more receptive to hearing and understanding the Word of God this week? Pray for each other to have the Holy Spirit bless you with more courage.

happen next. When Jesus threatens to take away their hate, the people respond with violence. They seize Jesus and try to throw him off a cliff.

Two thousand years into the future, at a time when foreigners, immigrants, outsiders, and refugees are once again being made into scapegoats, at a time when the very idea of diversity itself is the subject of ridicule and scorn, Jesus asks us still: would you allow me to take away your hatred and contempt? Or would you throw me over a cliff in order to hold onto your malicious pride?

Pastor Tommy

Our series was inspired by The Reverend Jeremy Peters of Court Street United Methodist Church, Flint, Michigan, in collaboration with several United Methodist Pastors serving the Flint area. Pastor Jeremy wrote some of the content. As we draw closer to the end of our Who dunnit? Series, we've discovered that nuance is important. While the verdict that Judas betrayed Jesus is clear, the why is a mystery. Did Judas lose trust in Jesus like many of us have lost trust in some of the institutions we depend on?

Pew Research has tracked public sentiment toward major institutions for over 25 years. Its latest poll, published in 2024, discovered that even trust in traditionally highly trusted institutions is headed in the wrong direction.

Of course, they warn us that trust is highly partisan. Democrats are substantially more trusting of government than Republicans. Nevertheless, most of us agree that we want protection from terrorism, someone watching over our food and medicine, and help recovering from natural disasters. Surprisingly, most of us give the government high marks in these areas.

A few federal agencies, such as the National Park Service, the Postal Service, and NASA, continue to have high favorability ratings. But overall, most people are losing faith in our government and institutions.

Did Judas simply lose faith in Jesus?

It was six days before Passover. Jesus and His followers were staying with friends in the Village of Bethany. It was the home of Lazarus, who you may remember.

Luke tells a story about the two sisters fretting over Jesus when He visited. Martha fretted over getting a meal on the table while Mary soaked up every word Jesus said. I mention this because these are all bits of the story.

First, there's Lazarus. The sisters had sent word that Lazarus was ill and near death. But Jesus didn't leave right away. Jesus' followers warned Him not to return to Judea because the last time they were there, the people threatened to stone Him. But Jesus went anyway. When they arrived, Lazarus was already dead. Jesus, however, brought Lazarus back to life, which apparently caught the attention of the religious leaders in Jerusalem.

These details connect to Judas because John tells us that "From that day on, the Jewish authorities made plans to kill Jesus." And Judas later becomes a part of their plot.

The gospel writers don't speculate on why he decided to do what he did, only that Judas turned against Jesus and sold Him out to his enemies. But the why remains a mystery. Mark doesn't venture so much as a guess at why. Matthew says Judas did it for the money but also says Judas gave the money back. Luke and John both say, "The devil made him do it!"

So, we're left to speculate about what Judas might have been thinking. Our best clue involves Mary, Martha's sister. This takes us back to Bethany and when Jesus and His followers stayed with them.

As I said earlier, Jesus and His followers stayed in Bethany when Mary poured a whole pint of expensive perfume on Jesus' feet. This story must be important since it appears in all four gospels. Matthew, Mark, and Luke all tell us that the disciples protested the wastefulness of this action. However, John adds a twist to the story that many scholars believe is connected with Judas' decision to betray Jesus.

John tells us that Judas responded to Mary's act with, "This perfume could have been sold for a small fortune! Think of all the money we could have given to the poor!" John adds that Judas didn't really care about the poor. In fact, Judas regularly helped himself to the funds for his own needs. Judas wasn't thinking about the poor. Judas was thinking about the profit he could have made by selling the perfume.

Maybe John's telling of this story explains the mystery of Judas' betrayal. Perhaps Judas decided to betray Jesus when he realized that Jesus didn't plan to capitalize on His celebrity status. Perhaps Judas had visions of the group building a mega-church.

Perhaps his betrayal really was nothing more than his love for money and power. It's possible, of course, that Judas betrayed Jesus for a bag of silver.

On the other hand, there is the secret of Judas' name.

It's interesting that Judas is referred to as "Judas Iscariot." We're not sure what Iscariot means in this case. Some believe the name refers to the town where Judas was from. Others speculate it's a family name.

However, some scholars believe the name Iscariot points to Judas' membership in a group of assassins known as the Sicarii.

The Sicari were Jews who used violence in opposition to Roman taxes and the occupation of their land by Roman soldiers. The name Sicari was derived from a weapon called a sica. The sica was a curved dagger they carried in their robes, waiting for a chance to drive it into an enemy's back. Afterward, they would fade into the crowd undetected.

This leads to the speculation that Judas chose to follow Jesus because he believed Jesus was planning a rebellion against the Romans. It makes sense. A rebellion is precisely what many expected the Messiah would do. Many believed that a Messiah would raise an army, march into Jerusalem, and overthrow the religious leaders who had corrupted the Temple. The Messiah would then drive out the Romans and proclaim himself king.

It's possible Judas believed that Jesus was this sort of Messiah.

Imagine Judas's frustration as he watched Jesus wander from one small Galilean village to another rather than heading straight for Jerusalem. It must have been music to his ears when Jesus finally announced that it was time to go to Jerusalem. Imagine his excitement when the people of Jerusalem gathered in large numbers to greet Jesus, waving palm branches. Surely, Jesus is the Messiah who will lead an assault to retake Jersusalem.

Judas went off and spoke with the chief priests and the officers of the Temple guard about how he could betray Jesus to them.

Luke 22:3-6

Judas' excitement continued when Jesus headed straight forthe Temple and started flipping the tables ofthe moneychangers. You have made My Father's house a den of thieves? Jesus shouted as He drove the thieves out of the Temple.

Finally, the Jesus Judas had been waiting for showed up. What comes next?

It was time for Jesus to urge the crowds to storm the Temple and toss the chief priests out. It was time for the people to take over the city. Jesus would declare Himself King, usher in a new age, and make Judea great again.

But instead of mobilizing the crowds, Jesus became passive. This must have seemed strange to Judas. Just as the city became ripe for violence, Jesus chose to sit in the Temple and tell parables. Instead of forming alliances and drawing up battle plans each evening, Jesus started spending more and more time alone in prayer.

Can't you imagine how maddening this must have been to Judas? Surely, his patience with Jesus was at an end.

On the other hand, perhaps there was no one moment or act of Jesus that caused Judas to turn away. Perhaps Judas just got tired of being disappointed. Perhaps Judas finally broke down under the weight of too many letdowns and missed opportunities.

Is it possible that Judas rejected Jesus when he discovered that Jesus' plan for the world didn't involve anger, vengeance, or violence? Perhaps we're not supposed to know Judas' motives.

What if the story of Judas is a warning? What is Juda is really a mirror for us to reflect on our own lives and motivations?

Perhaps the story of Judas is intended to be a reminder that Jesus' friends can betray him just as surely as his enemies. Perhaps the story of Judas asks us, "What is our line in the sand?"

In other words, what is our non-negotiable that could trip us up in our faith? Do we have an agenda, our possessions, or is there a piece of ourselves we are so attached to that we would throw Jesus overboard if he tried to take it from us?"

A NOTE ON ASH

WEDNESDAY Ash Wednesday presents an opportunity to remember that our struggle is not against flesh and blood. In this series we will focus on people who attempted to cut short the ministry of Jesus, but those people represented, in one way or another, the spiritual powers of this world that Jesus encountered in the wilderness. The people who tried to kill Jesus were consumed by selfish desires - the desire for comfort, the desire for power, the desire for glory. Matthew 4:1-11 reveals why so many people believed that Jesus had to die: he refused to play the game, and in doing so he exposed the players and threatened to topple the "winners."

Here is the outline of our series:

"To the world you may be one person, but to one person you may be the world." -- Dr. Seuss

I am delighted to inform you about an important new initiative coming to the Flint area, and to ask area faith communities for your help in its launch.

What:

The Children's Grief Center, Great Lakes Bay Region, is helping to establish a new Children's Grief Center in Flint to serve the Genesee County area. The need is enormous for grief support in the Flint/Genesee County area. And due to the abrupt closure last summer of the only free children's grief program in the area, there are very few places for families to seek help--especially help provided at no charge.

Why:

When the previous grief center closed, a group of folks from local hospice companies and funeral homes met together to discuss ways to meet the needs of grieving children and their parents. In the process of gathering information, we learned of the Children's Grief Center based in Midland and contacted them for advice.

The task seemed huge! To replace the previous program, we would need to: create a new non-profit, find a location, raise funds, design a program, recruit and train volunteers, assemble supplies...and we all have full-time jobs. But we decided to take a leap of faith.

The staff at the Children's Grief Center has not only given us great advice...they have graciously offered to help us to open a Genesee County program under the umbrella of their established non-profit organization. They will provide: grant writing services, program materials, volunteer training and help with program oversight.

When:

We hope to begin programming in September 2025. We have secured a location in a church building in Flint Township. We have begun recruiting and training volunteers, and we have reached out to U of M Flint seeking social work and psychology students who could intern with us.

We will start with peer support groups for children from age 5 through high school, as well as their parents/guardians. Our hope is to expand the program to provide grief support groups in local schools within the next couple of years.

What Area Faith Communities Can Do:

1. Help us locate the right volunteers by publishing the following announcement in your newsletter/bulletins for the next several weeks. (Feel free to use the logo and QR code.)

The Children's Grief Center is seeking volunteers from Genesee County to assist with grief support groups for children ages 5 to 18 and for their parents/guardians. Volunteers will receive thorough training to be well-prepared to walk with families through their loss. All volunteers are asked to commit to two evenings per month for a full school year (fall 2025 through spring 2026). Evening Grief Support programming will begin twice a month in September 2025. If you're interested in learning more, please fill out the volunteer form at www.childrensgriefglbr.org

2. Help us raise the funds we need to get started.

We estimate that it will cost about $2500 per month to provide these programs for families at no charge. This money will cover all program materials and supplies, a free dinner at each meeting (so that families can come straight from work/sports/etc. without worrying about supper), space rental, outreach materials, and staff time. We are currently seeking grant funding for the ongoing program, but we really need some resources to get started.

Please consider ways your congregation might provide a gift to help the Children's Grief Center to get started. We suggest perhaps receiving a special offering for this program on Sunday, June 8 (International Children's Day). To publicize such an offering, you can find lots of helpful information on the Children's Grief Center website.

Another option is to share this need and the web site address with your members through your newsletter/bulletin, allowing them to choose to donate individually if they wish. (Feel free to use the logo and QR code.)

Donations can be given directly through the Children's Grief Center website: www.childrensgriefglbr.org (A mailing address for checks is also found on the donate link.)

3. Share our wish list with your members:

https://www.amazon.com/hz/wishlist/ls/2N5VON1J91N39?ref =wl share

This list contains many basic supplies we'll need to get started. Folks can donate these things by ordering from the wish list, and items will ship directly to the Children's Grief Center. The QR code will also bring people to the Amazon wish list.

In advance, thank you so much for your support! Already I'm amazed at what a community can do when we work together!
